

With the right connections, anything is possible

The cables & RF components in your electronic system may not be the most important components to you, but they're everything to us.

We design and manufacture cables & RF components with the understanding that if a connection fails, it can take your whole system with it.

That's why our products are known for superior phase & amplitude stability, excellent measurement repeatability, and extra rugged mechanical strength. It's why we developed a unique GrooveTube® outer conductor technology that wraps our cable in a flexible "armor."

And why every component shipped from MegaPhase is thoroughly tested and retested.

We also provide a powerful warranty, the most responsive deliveries, and highly competitive pricing.

Because doing one thing right just isn't enough.

Not for us; and not for you.
